

Adult Education - Development - Cooperation: 40 Years of dvv international dvv international* Birthday Celebration: The Institute turns 40

The Institute was created in 1969 as a “competence center for adult education in developing countries” and as a department of DVV; it was renamed in 1993 as the “Institute for International Cooperation of the German Adult Education Federation” (IIZ/DVV), and since 2007 it has been known as dvv international. The Institute has continuously expanded its activities in the area of development cooperation. It is represented in many countries around the world and cooperates with many partners. This is reason enough to celebrate with partners, friends and colleagues. The celebration will take place in the context of our conference Financing Adult Education for Development on 23 June 2009.
